Chapter 1

Overview of the District

1.1 Introduction:

The occurrence of natural disasters is a global phenomenon. The North East of India is highly vulnerable to most types of natural calamities due to its geographical position. Concern about frequent disasters is becoming increasingly relevant as increase in population density, population shifts, depletion of natural environment and increasing technology make it likely that we will encounter disasters more frequently and that they will be more severe.

Karbi Anglong district is situated in the central part of Assam and is one of the hill districts of the state. It is bounded by Golaghat district in the east, Hojai District in the west, Nagaon district on the north and Nagaland State in the south. The district enjoys autonomy under the provision of Sixth schedule of the Indian constitution. Flood, Storm, Lighting is a regular phenomenon affecting moderately in the district and falls under Earthquake zone V. The district headquarter Diphu faced first flash flood in 2016 due to overflow of water from River DhanShri. to Diphu River that flows through the Diphu town.

The district of Karbi Anglong presently has three sub-divisions namely Diphu, Howraghat and Bokajan. Under Diphu Subdivision – Diphu Revenue Circle, Howraghat Subdivision- Phuloni Revenue Circle, Bokajan Subdivision- Silonijan Revenue Circle.

The Phuloni Revenue Circle is located 70km away from district headquarter and its total geographical area is 3157 sq.km, falls under Howraghat subdivision. The revenue circle is bounded by Nagaon district in the north-west, Hojai District in south and Diphu and Silonijan in the east. There are 299 revenue villages and total population is 279,848 as per 2011 census and total literacy rate of Phuloni Revenue Circle is 69.96%. There are 10 nos. mouza, 6 nos. police stations, and 4 nos. Development Blocks in the Revenue Circle. The main rivers that flow in the region that cause floods are Swargathi, Dikharu, Horinapar and Jamuna.

The Silonijan Revenue Circle is located in the heart of Karbi Anglong with Golaghat district as one of its boundaries. The Circle is connected by National Highway 39. The rivers that flow through revenue circle are Kalyani River, Deihori River, Nambor River, Dhansiri River, Deopani River, Khanari River, Daigrung River, Bornewria River, Choshentongri River, Bordhing River, Kohora River, Difullu River, Rangsali River and Deithor River. There are many streams and waterfalls under silonijan revenue circle but the flood scenario is not that severe. In 1997 Jongpha village experienced hailstorm, year 2016, due to cloudburst, the Naga Rengma Mouza experienced one of the worst floods in 25 years which resulted damage of huge amount of paddy field and killing many live stocks. In the year 2019 in month of October due to heavy rain in the hills there was sudden flood in many villages under Silonijan Rev. Circle.

The Diphu Revenue Circle is bounded by Nagaland, Golaghat District, Hojai District, Phuloni Circle, Silonijan Circle and Dima Hasao District. The area is highly prone to earthquake, seasonal flood and storm. Though the area is not prone to floods, it has a history of flash floods affecting the low lying areas of Diphu town due to Diphu River, Dharamnalla which flows through the town. The river like Dhansiri, Jamuna and several other rivers and streams flow through the Circle which causes floods in some areas of Neperpetty, Dhansiri, Morakordoiguri and Matipul.

4.10: Agriculture Department: Shri. Mukul Bharat Nath, District Agriculture Officer, Ph. No. 7896952090

Flood is becoming a regular natural calamity in the hill districts of Karbi Anglong during the last few years. The occurrence of flood and its extent of crop damage have been increasing year after year. Therefore the District Administrations and the authority of KAAC were compelled to take certain relief measures for compensating the loss of crop damage by way of providing seeds and other inputs to the flood affected farmers.

The major rivers which caused flood havoc in the district during the last few years are:-

- Jamuna, Dighalpani, Dikharu, Horgathi and Horina Rivers under Diphu (S) Sub-Division.
- Dhansiri River under Bokajan (C) Sub-Division

Last 3-5 years of experience on Flood reveals no major harm to crops in this district, since the floods are of “Flash” nature, staying in the crop field for quite a small spell of time, without causing any major damage to the crop.

Eventhough, there is always a probability of incidence of two or more consecutive flash flood as a result of continuous rain, where crop submergence in field remains for at least more than 48 hours, there may be a great impact on Agricultural fields and productions and therefore, a contingency crop planning for flood and relief thereof, for the district of Karbi Anglong has been prepared for the year of 2025-26.

1. Kharif Programme

- a) By raising Community Nurseries: Community Nurseries may be raised to meet the seedlings requirement of flood affected in the Deptl. Seed farms or in the high land area of flood affected farmers (where feasible) with suitable Rice varieties like Swarna sub, Monohor Sali, Kushal, Pankaj and local varieties which can be transplanted even up to last week of August/1st week of September. For occasionally flood affected areas where flood is expected to recede early in season and Rice can be transplanted in the middle of August, varieties like Sub-one, s of Swarna Ranjit, Bahadur and Monohor Sali etc. may be selected with normal seedbed sowing. In areas where transplanting of Rice is not possible by mid September, early maturity (Short duration) varieties like Luit, Kopili and Culture-1 may be selected for direct seedbed crop with sprouted seeds.
- b) By Kharif Pluse Programme: Pulses like Green gram and Black gram as Kharif crop may be distributed among flood affected farmers having high land for cultivation for cultivation from mid August to September.

2. Rabi Programme: If the excess rain/flood continues till end of September resulting crop failure as there will be no time for resowing of Rice, the field may be prepared for the ensuing Rabi crop.

3. Other Programme:

- a) Tractorisation: In order to reduce time lag for preparation of land just after recession of flood, mechanization through Tractor/Power tiller is inevitable for the tractorisation on Community basis.
- b) Plant Protection Measures: Infestation of pest and diseases of flood is generally observed. Therefore, sufficient stock of pesticides and fungicides shall be required to tackle the probable pests and disease attack.
